WHAT TO DO EACH DAY:

1. Visit your local library to check out books that feature African-Americans.
3. Read a book that takes place during the Harlem Renaissance.
6. Read a book about Barack or Michelle Obama.
7. Visit a Black History or Civil Rights Museum or exhibit.
11. Visit a Black History or Civil Rights Museum or exhibit.
13. Read a book about an African-American woman/
22. Read a book written by a Black author and illustrated by a Black illustrator.
23. Read or listen to Dr. King’s I Have a Dream Speech.
25. Read a book about Serena Williams.
26. Read a book about a famous Black environmentalist or climate activist.
27. Read a book about a Black person who served in the military.
30. Read a book written by a Black author and illustrated by a Black illustrator.
31. Read or listen to Dr. King’s I Have a Dream Speech.
32. Visit a Black History or Civil Rights Museum or exhibit.
34. Read a book about a famous musician of African descent.
35. Read a book about an athlete of African descent.
37. Visit a Black History or Civil Rights Museum or exhibit.
40. Read a book written by a Black author and illustrated by a Black illustrator.
41. Read or listen to Dr. King’s I Have a Dream Speech.
42. Visit a Black History or Civil Rights Museum or exhibit.
44. Read a book about a famous musician of African descent.
45. Read a book about an athlete of African descent.
47. Read a book about a famous African-American.
48. Read a book written by a Black author and illustrated by a Black illustrator.
49. Read or listen to Dr. King’s I Have a Dream Speech.
50. Visit a Black History or Civil Rights Museum or exhibit.
52. Read a book about a famous musician of African descent.
56. Read a book written by a Black author and illustrated by a Black illustrator.
57. Read or listen to Dr. King’s I Have a Dream Speech.
58. Visit a Black History or Civil Rights Museum or exhibit.
60. Read a book about a famous musician of African descent.
64. Read a book written by a Black author and illustrated by a Black illustrator.
65. Read or listen to Dr. King’s I Have a Dream Speech.